'Route no. 033', by Madhuja Mukherjee, is a creative project with photographs, images, videos, sounds, voices and noise, which culminates into an installation (2022), and is preceded by 'addas'. 'Talking Maps' inaugurates our adda series.

We ask: how are cities or a city like Kolkata traversed by the people? Is there an experiential city, even if partially, which persists outside the planned city? How do we create our own emotional and intimate geographies? What are our cartographic practices, which challenge the hegemonic map? Can we say that people themselves become places, marks and markers of our living map...?

Madhuja Mukherjee is the Project Coordinator for this Foundation Project implemented by India Foundation for the Arts (IFA), in collaboration with Victoria Memorial Hall (VMH) Kolkata, under the Archives and Museums programme. This has been made possible with part-support from Goethe-Institut / Max Mueller Bhavan New Delhi.
